Our Background

OneClick Cleaners was launched in 2008 by an average Joe (that's his real name) who decided to start his own dry cleaning & laundry business after researching a variety of industries and business types. By applying his expertise in traditional retail and e-commerce technology, he has completely revolutionized the already stable, profitable and proven business model to make it even easier, more lucrative and more convenient by attracting and managing new customers online.

Today Joe has more than 3000 customers and new ones signing up daily. By combining three highly profitable and effective business strategies (dry cleaning, laundry & e-commerce), Joe has created one business model that will inherently multiply on its own. Additionally, OneClick Cleaners has introduced several important and convenience related features within its operating system and web site that attract new customers and enhance the overall customer experience.
